

Kolping Youth Week Entering the world of work

This year's camp will focus on unemployment and the opportunities to get in (or back) to the world of work. We compiled the program of the week to show the youth some ideas and practices with which they can succeed on their way to get a job. Moreover the educational part of the camp we provide them cultural, historical and religious activities as well.

Esztergom, the host place of the Youth Week is one of the oldest cities of Hungary. It has a really rich cultural and religious history since the foundation of the country in 1000 A.D. The diocese of Esztergom was founded in 1001 by St. Stephan, the first king of Hungary. Since then the Diocese of Esztergom (now Diocese of Budapest-Esztergom) is the head diocese in our country and here is the Archbishop's seat. Now the archbishop of Hungary is Péter Erdő and the auxiliary bishop is János Székely. János Székely as a former priest in the Kolping Society is patroning the Kolping Youth Week.
